Our curriculum was full of learning as we celebrated varied festivals which enhanced faith, love and brotherhood between children further detailing the significance of each festivity.

Festivals of India

JANMASHTAMI

Janmashtami is also known as Gokul Ashtami. It is one of the most prominent festivals of India. "Dahi-Handi" is an essential part of this celebration which is practised by everyone. The tiny tots enjoyed colouring and decorating the Dahi Handi to understand the significance of this festival. They enjoyed listening to various stories about Krishna and were made aware of his many teachings and pranks !

Raksha BANDHAN

Raksha Bandhan is not just a thread; it's love that forever connects our hearts. Raksha Bandhan is a festival which celebrates the bond of a brother and sister. The little munchkins coloured and decorated beautiful cards for their siblings and learnt about its significance through stories. They were happy to take home the beautiful cards to present them as gifts 📺 of love to their siblings and cousins.

Independence Day celebrations were a dazzling display of patriotism and splendor. The young ones adorned themselves in vibrant Tricolour attire, embodying their unwavering love for the nation. The excitement continued as they coloured the national flag and decorated their sheets with tricolours.

Hip Hip Hooray!!!

It is so much fun to see students get excited about all the learning that they have done in 50 days. The pre-primary students celebrated 50 days of school by dressing up in colourful tees with denims and learnt the importance of the rainbow colours. The musical parade with waving flags and banners was enjoyed by all participating and the ones who were watching.

It sure was an enthralling way to celebrate being 50 days smarter.
